Affinity with rural industries

25 years ago rural Australia was in open conflict with the government and the banks. The crisis had arisen from the effects of a severe and continuing drought, and harsh foreclosure policies. Farm property was being destroyed by farmers rather than submit to what they felt were unfair and unjust legal processes. Out of this conflict grew the Farm Debt Mediation Act sponsored by the Rt. Hon. Richard Amery. His vision was for a fair and equitable resolution process that enabled farmers and bankers to simply sit down and talk. Mr Amery described his vision of mediation as being "Three people sitting under a tree to resolve their differences". Twenty three years later, it is still the best description for both mediation and the first class process he initiated.

I worked with the initial people that helped formulate this Act and am still working with the current people committed to its improvement and success. I have mediated several hundred rural matters including those that arise from the breakdown of family or matrimonial relationships, farm debt, and estates. I have lived on, worked on, and owned farms. My work also involves considerable experience in handling the personal trauma and dramatic effects that a downturn has on individuals and their families alike. I am the ex-Chair of Lifeline Auckland, Lifeline Pasifika, the Gambling Helpline and Director of Lifeline International. I am also accredited with the Queensland Farm Business Debt Mediation Act and with the NSW Minister of Health to conciliate for the NSW Health Care Complaints Commission. I have had two books on conflict published internationally by Harper Collins, Avoid Retirement and Stay Alive and What's Keeping You Awake at Night?. My Philosophy is, and has always been, that the people are more important than the money, and further details can be found on my website <www.davidbogan.com>.

Affinity with rural industries

Mediation can be a marvellous process for resolving disputes, but it can also be a very daunting prospect where there has been no previous involvement. This is particularly so where a farming family's home and livelihood is involved.

As an experienced mediator, I know the importance of doing what I can to reduce the understandable anxieties of participants. I am available at all hours to discuss what to expect from mediation and to clarify what preparation each party needs to undertake to ensure productive negotiations with the other party.

I have mediated more than 100 farm debt matters, covering cropping, wool, beef, pigs, fruit, grapes, rice, vegetables, emus and aquaculture, farm machinery and a tourist attraction. I have mediated in other farming disputes involving inter-generational transfers, partnership and horse agistment. I also have knowledge of the pastoral, dairy, fruit, nut, sugar and timber industries, gained as a business adviser.

I am accredited under the National Mediator Accreditation System standards.

Affinity with rural industries

As one of Australia’s most experienced mediators (over 3,000 mediation’s in 30 years of ongoing experience) I have been much involved with farming families and rural property in both personal and financial matters.

During this time I have gained an understanding of the unique personal, cultural and financial dynamics which arise in rural sector mediation. I am aware that not only are there financial and livelihood factors to be resolved, but that the emotional attachment to the property and the impact on the whole family needs to be balanced against the creditors’ or claimants’ interest and needs.

I have been selected as mediator in at least 250 matters. These mediation have involved difficulties resulting from weather extremes, removal of support schemes, uncertain commodity price, farm machinery and interest rates. The farming activities have included cropping, cattle, sheep, pigs, orchards, vineyards, berries, timber, fishing, vegetables, dairies, poultry, ostriches, rice, honey production and mixed enterprises.

In addition I have worked with farming families in regard to distribution and re-arrangement of assets on matrimonial breakdown, dissolution of partnerships, disputes over wills, reassignment of bank loans involving farm equipment and resources and inter-generational transfers.

I am qualified to work anywhere in Australia under the Australian National Mediation Standards Accreditation System.

I have worked with farmers as a psychologist prior to becoming a mediator for 20 years in Australia. I am also a solicitor in the Australian Government. When growing up I spent most of my school holidays at the family-owned property.

I completed training in negotiation at the Harvard Law School in 2009. In addition I am also an accredited family dispute resolution practitioner as referred to in the Family Law Act 1975 (Cth).

My mediation experience is wide ranging and the mediating parties gain the advantage of engaging an accredited facilitator that combines a strong academic postgraduate background (In law, business administration and psychology) with extensive hands-on rural experience.

Affinity with rural industries

I have a broad understanding of rural industries and issues. I practised as a solicitor in regional NSW for over 30 years. Most of my clients have had a rural background. My practice included finance, agriculture including cattle (beef and dairy), and various crops including cane, macadamias and other orchards. I have advised clients on finance and refinancing negotiations.

My mediation practice has included a great many farm debt mediations and other mediations involving rural industries.

Affinity with rural industries

I have been a barrister for 31 years and represented people from all walks of life. I understand people in crisis. In recent years, I have mainly worked for clients in country NSW including Bathurst, New England and the Hunter regions. I understand that a farm is more than security for a loan but also that farms cannot survive without access to efficient financial institutions.

I have been appointed to the list of mediators in the District and Supreme Courts and the Dust Diseases Tribunal of NSW. I am a part time Senior Legal Member of NSW Civil and Administrative Tribunal in its Guardianship Division. I am willing to travel.

Affinity with rural industries

I live in Canberra with an office in Sydney. My rural practice includes partnership, estate, finance and other work as well as farm debt mediation. As a lawyer I acted for farmers and rural financiers in regard to farm debt issues. I have a affinity with and an understanding of the interests of both parties to a farm debt dispute. I retired from legal practice to work full time as a mediator and arbitrator in 1999. I am experienced in commercial and financial issues. I regularly travel to rural areas to mediate, arbitrate and teach. I have been a mediator (full time) since 1999 and a farm debt mediator since 1994. I have also conducted mediation in relation to native title and issues involving land management issues.

I have conducted over 2,000 mediations in all areas of commercial and personal conflict. Many of those have involved Australians living in rural and remote areas.

In the last 4 years I have supported remote indigenous communities (Alawa and Aputula) with conflict resolution on Country and supported their aspirations and capacity building (with Indigenous Community Volunteers)

Mediations conducted (to date) have included matters in and from the following areas:

Dubbo, Tamworth, Brisbane and South East Queensland, Orange, Gunnedah, Armidale, Bathurst, Coffs Harbour, Lismore, Albury, Port Macquarie, Narrabri, Far North Queensland, Broken Hill, Tweed Heads, Bundaberg, Central Coast, Alice Springs and Wollongong.

I am willing to travel throughout rural Australia to assist the parties to rural finance and other transactions.

I have trained mediators throughout Australia, in Canada, Hong Kong and Malaysia.

Affinity with rural industries

Since 1989 primary producer in partnership with my husband on a small beef farm in north-west NSW, and I have experienced flood, bushfire and drought accordingly. I have a complete understanding and affinity with issues that affect rural industries including farming, conveyancing, business and banking principles. I have taught commercial law and taxation law.

I have over 20 years' experience as a mediator and solicitor in rural and regional New South Wales, specialising in farm debt, commercial, employment, succession and family law matters and mediations.

I am:

- a nationally accredited mediator
- an accredited family law dispute resolution practitioner with the Federal Attorney-General's Department
- a Law Society panel mediator
- a Legal Aid panel mediator

Since the introduction of the Farm Debt Mediation Act I have participated in the growth of mediation as a viable and successful process of dispute resolution and I have held mediation workshops for service providers.

Currently I have my own practice as a mediator and solicitor covering the NSW regions of New England, North West and Central West. I may also be available to travel and provide mediation outside of these regions and welcome any enquiry to do so.

Affinity with rural industries

I have practised as a professional mediator since 1997, mediating farm debt, family separation, parenting and property, workplace, tenancy, aged care and health care matters.

I hold national mediation accreditation, am a member of the LEADR panel of Advanced Mediators and act as a lead coach in the Resolution Institute’s mediation training courses. I am a registered Family Dispute Resolution Practitioner (Commonwealth Attorney General's Department) and counsellor.

Tertiary qualifications: Communication, Psychology (Hons).

Other qualifications: Professional Coach (International Coaching Federation), Counsellor.

I am experienced and confident dealing with strong emotion and high conflict situations. I am equally comfortable working with farmers and creditors. Client feedback consistently reflects high level satisfaction. Clients use words such as thorough, sensitive, experienced, highly competent, fair and impartial to describe their experience of my mediation style.

I own and manage a rural property near Dubbo.

My private practice, Mindspan Communications, is based in Dubbo www.mindspan.com.au.

Affinity with rural industries

I am an experienced mediator, legal practitioner Family Dispute Resolution Practitioner (FDRP) and conflict coach. Being involved in the legal fraternity for over twenty years I have worked with many families, and businesses to assist them in resolving their disputes.

As well as working in Sydney I have worked in regional Australia conducting mediations in family disputes. I have an affinity with rural life and with families living on the land, my father owned his farm and I have experienced some of the hardships farmers persevered.

My legal and mediation practise is general, I describe it as a "people" practice, customising my services to best suit the individual needs of my clients.

I serve on numerous panels including the Law Society ADR Committee, Mediators Panel District Court; the NSW Law Society's Mediators Panel and Family Law Settlement Panel; and Office of the Franchising Code. I am also a coach and facilitator at the College of Law in Mediation and FDRP courses and workshops.

Affinity with rural industries

I am a nationally accredited mediator, barrister-at-law and chartered arbitrator. I have worked to assist farmers and people living in rural areas resolve their disputes since I was first qualified as a farm debt mediator in 1997.

Since 2017, I have been appointed as the Commonwealth Government’s Mediation Adviser under the Horticulture Code of Conduct. I am responsible for the appointment of mediators for all horticulture disputes under the Code.

I am the only mediator appointed by the federal Minister for Agriculture to the farm debt roundtable to advise on developing a better national farm debt mediation process with the banks, farmer organisations, financial advisors and government agencies.

I have assisted farmers’ associations by conducting negotiation training and providing advice to dairy farmers and their cooperatives, mediating disputes between egg producers over chicken cage regulations and resolving disputes with coal mining companies seeking access to farms.

I have been accredited as a mediator since 1992 and teach the Dispute Resolution course at the University of Sydney Law School. As well as settling disputes between parties I practise a transformative style of mediation that seeks to get people back into relationship with each other, as either business or family partners.

I also have experience as a senior commercial manager and understand the legal and financial implications of decisions and can assist farmers to properly explore all of the options available for the resolution of their dispute.

Affinity with rural industries

- I am one of the most active mediators under the Victorian Farm Debt Mediation Act, having mediated more than 60 farm debt disputes since the scheme began in early 2012.
- These have covered the broad range of agriculture activities, including sheep, dairy, wheat, wine grapes, table grapes, nuts, dry fruit, canning fruit and potatoes.
- These mediations have included all of the major agricultural lenders and also equipment finance providers.
- My commercial mediation practice also includes contractual disputes in the farming sector, allowing me to understand the broader challenges farmers often encounter.
- My secondary schooling was in Bundaberg when my father worked in the sugar industry, giving me close exposure to farmers and the pressures they face.

Affinity with rural industries

I have had extensive experience as a practising solicitor and barrister in Queensland since 1984, throughout Queensland. During that time I have acted for a number of rural families and financial institutions.

Between 1997 and 2003 I was employed as the Farm and Rural Legal Officer directly responsible for resolution of farm debt disputes between banking institutions and primary producers and I now practise as a barrister in Brisbane specialising in mediation including farm debt matters.

Affinity with rural industries

I have been a solicitor in country NSW for over 35 years and a mediator since 1995: DP O'Keefe Macquarie Law http://www.macquarielaw.com.au

Much of my legal work and the business of my clients relates to rural properties, agriculture and rural service industries. Over the years I have helped clients with the purchase and sale of rural properties, mortgages & mortgage default (acting for mortgagors and mortgagees), crown land & western lands leases, water access licences, wills and family succession, intergenerational transfers, leasing, share farming & agistment, contracts and security taken over crops, livestock, farming plant & equipment. I have an understanding of some of the issues with transporting grain. I am a strong believer in mediation. I also have experience working with families and businesses in times of stress.

My father's family were farmers and drovers. I grew up in Forbes NSW and my family up until recently still had a few acres there. I have spent virtually all of my working life in Dubbo NSW. Many of my friends and clients are on the land.

Affinity with rural industries

Farming creates a relationship with the land that is unique. Something more than a business is at risk. Equally, it needs to be remembered that farming as a business is governed by unpredictable factors and nobody is to blame if these erode the farm's financial position. Being appointed to the Farm Debt Mediation Panel offers me the chance to play a constructive role in this situation.

As a mediator, I bring to the process sympathy for the farmer as well as understanding of business and financial issues, which can facilitate progress towards a satisfactory outcome.

Accredited under the National Mediator Accreditation Standards by the Institute of Arbitrators & Mediators (now the Resolution Institute), I have been in full-time practice for over fifteen years during which I have accumulated thousands of hours of valuable hands-on experience. My practice includes a wide range of matters. In addition to the farm debt mediation, my expertise extends to family law, wills and estates, strata title and franchise matters, business and workplace disputes.

A graduate of Sydney University, my thirty year business career prior to practising as a mediator, included positions as National Marketing Manager of the Hoyts Corporation and Chief Executive of the NSW Bar Association.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions about the above, or about the mediation process.

Affinity with rural industries

I have been a mediator since 1990 and began mediating matters under the Farm Debt Mediation Act 1994 from the inception of the NSW Rural Assistance Authority Scheme. I have mediated many matters which include the division of rural properties, rural debt matters, farming practices, community matters, banking and commercial matters. I was a Mortgage and Credit Industry Ombudsman 2001–05. I own a small property in the Blue Mountains and my husband is the sixth generation from a sheep farming family from the Western District of Victoria. I have an affinity with the rural sector. My detailed curriculum vitae is available upon request.

Affinity with rural industries

I am an experienced and nationally accredited mediator, a practising regional solicitor, a lifelong farmer, a member of the Resolution Institute, and a Fellow of the Financial Services Institute of Australasia. I am currently Secretary of the Mediation SIG of the Resolution Institute. I am on several mediation panels including the Courts and other government departments.

I am a rural property owner. My family has conducted a mixed farming enterprise for five generations. I gain great satisfaction from successful farm dispute resolution. My success rate is high for successful resolutions.

I am willing to travel throughout southern NSW. I conduct mediations anywhere in the southern half of NSW (including Sydney).

Affinity with rural industries

I have practised as a solicitor in regional New South Wales since 1966. I have a substantial degree of contact with rural producers and property owners. I live on a small vealer-rearing farm and operate it on a part time basis. Since 1966 I have regularly advised farmers on a range of matters and have acted for them in relation to transfer of farm property and been involved in the implementation of rural finance, advising as to statutory obligations of rural land owners and as to succession to farming properties. My experience in rural finance and financial management has related to finance applications for property transfers and dealings with banks and financial institutions in regard to farmer clients.

I also have considerable experience in relation to business insolvency and arrangements with creditors.

My involvement in a farming community has given me an appreciation of the difficulties and vagaries caused to farmers by seasonal conditions and climactic patterns.
